problem

Client crashed into a parked car on a shopping center parking lot. Client panicked and fled the scene. Client was charged with hit and run.

solution

The owner of the damaged car, a necessary witness, failed to appear for trial. The prosecutor requested a postponement. I opposed the postponement request, telling the judge that the prosecutor should attempt to phone the witness, find out why the witness was absent (was there a good reason), and offer assurances the witness would appear for trial next time.

result

The judge ordered the prosecutor to phone the missing witness. The witness could not be found and the prosecutor dropped the charge.
